Folding rule 2m, metric, 10 lines. 4102008 Material plastic, length 2m, To install a flush-mounted box and pull cables through, the electrician needs several tools with different functions at hand in order to be able to do his work quickly and efficiently. With the universally applicable Longlife® electrician's folding rule, several work steps can be covered at the same time. The meter rule impresses with its integrated holding function for cables in the range of 3 to 7 mm, which makes cable routing easier in installation environments that are difficult to access. Another advantage for electrical installation is the box distance scale for up to 3 flush-mounted boxes and edge distance marking at 150 mm. Due to its orange color, the meter stick can be found quickly and easily on the construction site, so there is no loss of time searching for lost tools or having to replace lost tools. Furthermore, with the help of the Wiha flashlight with UV light, it can be easily found even in poor lighting conditions. The bend-resistant meter rule also impresses with its maximum durability and absolute precision.
