The devices switch wear-free and silently and are therefore ideal for noise-sensitive areas (offices, hospitals). They are extremely reliable even at high switching frequencies. The compact design saves space on the cooling surface. The solid-state relays can also be expanded using the standardized 3RF29 function modules for a variety of applications by simply clicking on them. The devices are approved worldwide (e.g. IEC and UL/CSA). The solid-state relays are available as 1-phase devices in two widths or as 3-phase devices. They are available for different powers and rated operating voltages. Designed for AC or DC operation, they are available with screw spring-loaded or ring cable lug connections. In addition to the 3RF29 function modules, control plugs and terminal covers are also available as accessories. Simple, efficient, always up to date - the SIRIUS modular system.
